The horoscope wheel explained

If you are looking at this page, you must be a bit like me, fascinated by all those signs and symbols! I still remember how exciting and mysterious my horoscope seemed to me when I first saw it. Sadly, there isn't room in a document like this to fully explain astrology. Perhaps one day you'll do a little background reading or meet someone who has studied it. Then, I think you'll be able to see that, no matter how much it is to have your horoscope interpreted, actually being able to read it for yourself is like beginning a wonderful, endless journey of self-discovery! Until then you may like to know the following things. Please note that on this page is an example chart and not your own!

You have all 12 signs of the zodiac (and all 10 'planets') in your horoscope. Everyone does. It is the order of things that makes each chart unique. In Astrology, the Sun and the Moon are called planets. Each planet is in a sign AND a house. Depending on when and where you were born you can have any planet in any sign and in any house! Houses are simply divisions of the sky above and below the birthplace, based on the horizon at your time of birth. They are numbered 1-12, anti-clockwise, always starting at the 9 O'clock position. Zodiac signs are measured by dividing the part of the sky astronomers call the ecliptic into 12 equal slices. Some of your signs will be empty. So too will some of your 'houses'. It is possible that most of your planets will be bunched together in one section of the chart or you could find them spread fairly evenly throughout the horoscope. Some people read a lot into this kind of information. I personally don't. Indeed, there are several cosmic factors that, after a lot of experimentation, I have come to see as superfluous. I respect, though, the right of other astrologers to hold a different view. If you show this chart to any other experienced astrologer you should find that they can read it clearly and confirm the accuracy with which it has been calculated. Such a person may like to know that my house system is 'Porphyry' - and that the lunar node shown on (though not interpreted in) this chart is the 'mean node'.

Long Term Influences

Uranus Trines Pluto

You will first start to notice the effects of this transit around 28th June 2020. You will continue to experience this influence until 7th March 2022 after which time it will rapidly diminish.

The day after tomorrow will come, even if tomorrow never does! Or, to put it another way, though we rarely wake up in the morning to find our world has totally changed, we always come to realize, after a period of time, that something significant has shifted. Life is asking you to think about where you want to be in a year or two. You hardly care. You just want to know about the next few hours and days. What you have now though, is far more power over the long-term future than the short term. Remember though that knowledge is power but power is not knowledge. It is perfectly possible to make a great impact on a situation, an object or an individual - even if you don't really know what you're doing. Some kinds of power are much more useful and desirable than others. What you want is the kind of power that stems from wisdom, intelligence and access to reliable information. That is precisely the kind of power which, with a little more research and forethought, you can begin to acquire for yourself now. Slowly but surely, you are making a crucial discovery. You are understanding something about yourself, your situation - and your deepest, most important needs. There's an element of tension attached to this. You are not entirely happy about all that you are finding out. Yet you ought to be very happy about the lesson that you are learning. It is a powerful, positive one. You are being alerted to the reason why a change of plan ought to take place. There is time to instigate this new plan, successfully and profitably.

Jupiter Trines Sun

You will first start to notice the effects of this transit around 18th April 2021. You will continue to experience this influence until 20th December 2021 after which time it will rapidly diminish.

If you want to grow a banana tree, all you need is a greenhouse and an onion. Plant the bulb, water the soil and say 'Onion, onion, one, two three; turn into a banana tree.' This technique is totally guaranteed to work, provided you have absolute faith in it. If, for one tiny moment, at any point in the cultivation process, you doubt that the onion can or will become a banana, the enterprise will fail. Trust is a wonderful thing. Sometimes it can work miracles. But only if it is based on something truly viable. The sky now describes a time during which you find yourself thrown into the spotlight. A drama is unfolding and it centres, directly around you. There is no way to avoid the responsibility you carry. This may sound intense but it is actually wonderful. It means you are always going to find it easy to know where you are supposed to be and what you are supposed to be doing. One quick check will instinctively, accurately tell you. You will tend soon, to feel either as if you are sitting right on top of the world, full of confidence and purpose; quite sure of the next move you need to make - or you will feel doubtful and drained. If this occurs, it will be a simple matter to correct your course and focus, once more, on the only thing that really matters at the moment. All you will need is a little trust and a little discrimination. With regard to the latter I recall that Bruce Springsteen once sang a song about the trouble with cable and satellite TV. It was called '57 Channels And Nothing On'. These days, if we want to, we can receive a lot more channels than that. The same principle applies though. There's no shortage of stuff to watch in this world - even if we have no TV at all. Soap operas unfold all around us. But few things properly, fully engage and satisfy us. What's required, in your life now, is a determination to focus on the only story that actually matters.

Jupiter Trines Venus

You will first start to notice the effects of this transit around 20th April 2021. You will continue to experience this influence until 22nd December 2021 after which time it will rapidly diminish.

Your bank manager is going to fall madly and passionately in love with you! Your investments are about to give forth wonderful dividends - and you're also due to receive financial help from a variety of sources. The Midas touch, as the legend tells, can have its disadvantages - but by and large, you'll have plenty to celebrate now - and in fact, it won't only be your bank balance that receives a boost. Your popularity is at a peak - and if there's a conquest you want to make or a spot of subtle charm that you'd like to deploy - you'll find yourself welcome almost anywhere you care to go. The good news doesn't stop here. The rare planetary influence which is now having a delightfully pleasing effect on your life also extends to your creative powers. People will quickly notice this - and your advice will be eagerly sought, even on matters which you think you know little about. What's more, you'll come up with the goods - because your ability to know, intuitively, just what's needed is genuine and strong. The only thing you need to watch for this transit, is a tendency to expect too much, too quickly. The irony of your current situation is that you're doing exceedingly well - but could be harbouring hopes of doing even better. Remember to quit while you're ahead!

Jupiter Trines Moon

You will first start to notice the effects of this transit around 2nd May 2021. You will continue to experience this influence until 1st January 2022 after which time it will rapidly diminish.

Dentists, no matter how delicate, have to cause their patients some temporary pain. Most medical treatments involve a certain amount of discomfort. Even psychic healers expect their clients to go through some difficult experiences on their journey back to full wellbeing. Miracles DO happen. Easy miracles though, rarely occur. Maybe then, you would prefer to do without a miracle. Maybe you are happy with things as they are. Except that... well, you know. And you also know what is essential and well worthwhile now. As you now set out to work a miracle ' on your own behalf or on behalf of someone else, be just a little wary. It's not that you can't succeed. Under this astrological influence you very probably can. But you need to remember that some people are just gob-smackingly selfish. Heartless souls who would sell their own grandmother into slavery if their accountant told them there was a tax advantage in it! Other people are far too nice for their own good. Angels who would give their last crust to a starving stranger. If this world is ever to become a better place, the sour folk have got to learn to become sweeter. And the softer ones have got to toughen up, at least just a little. Your current desire to be fair may be more than a little unfair... on you!

Jupiter Squares Mars

You will first start to notice the effects of this transit around 10th May 2021. You will continue to experience this influence until 6th January 2022 after which time it will rapidly diminish.

"Patience," they tell us, "is a virtue". Perhaps, if we wait long enough, we will one day find out why. Meanwhile though, we all have lives to live; things to accomplish and problems to solve. Patience alone will not help us do any of that. In one particular aspect of your life at least now, patience is not a virtue but a vice. It is causing you to be passive, weak and wishy washy. It is leading you to accept something that you ought to reject. A policy of deferred gratification is all well and good when there's likely to be some gratification at the end of it. Now though, there's a much swifter source of satisfaction that you ought to pursue. While Jupiter is forming this sharp angle to the position of Mars in your birth chart, you will have energy, determination and a sense of urgency. Watch this last one, it can backfire on you. The faster you run ahead, the quicker you'll reach your destination. Or so you think. Usually, such a statement is true. Not though, if you happen to have raced, by mistake, onto an escalator which is going in the wrong direction. It makes more sense to go backwards, find the right conveyance and then try again. Under the aggravating influence of your current celestial climate you can waste an inordinate amount of time and energy getting all steamed up about something that isn't even relevant. If your plans are not working out, don't throw all your fury into forcing them. Instead, use your head. An hour's thought will save you unnecessary stress. That much patience, you should show. Any more than that is probably pointless.

Saturn Squares Neptune

You will first start to notice the effects of this transit around 12th May 2021. You will continue to experience this influence until 31st January 2022 after which time it will rapidly diminish.

They would appear to have you surrounded. The rule makers, law enforcers, power holders and authority figures have got you tied up in reams of red tape. There's not a single easy option left open to you. Wherever you turn, whatever you try, someone somewhere is intending to block you. Or so it seems. No wonder you feel so inclined to retreat into a private fantasy that nobody can intrude upon. But actually, they have left one attractive avenue unguarded. It just so happens to be the road that genuinely suits you best. So don't put all your cards on the table. I offer you this advice, not because your hand is weak but because it is stronger than you think. Imagine that you have been dealt an ace which, as every gambler knows, can have a flexible value in certain games. Each time you look at it, you assume that it represents a problem. Really though, seen from another perspective, it is a most valuable asset. You can 'win' in a key area of struggle or debate but only if you don't accidentally give away something that you ought to keep quietly to yourself for a while. Your situation is gratifying in one way, exasperating in another. Thus, it is most confusing. The sky is making it hard for you to tell if you ought to be celebrating wildly - or collapsing into paroxysms of despair. Good cases can be made to justify either reaction. Obviously, as an optimistic astrologer, I want to encourage you to look on the bright side. But I shan't insult your intelligence in the process. You are correct to identify a major cause for concern. You are right, too, to feel thwarted or offended by a certain person's attitude and by the repressive powers that are being invoked to keep you from doing what you want to do. But I still maintain that there is a way out. Merely, perhaps, delayed a bit, if you let any of this get to you.

Uranus Opposes Neptune

You will first start to notice the effects of this transit around 21st June 2021. You will continue to experience this influence until 25th February 2023 after which time it will rapidly diminish.

If there's one thing worse than feeling confused, it's feeling absolutely certain. When we feel this way, we endanger our ability to be wise. Little or nothing in this world is crystal clear.

Every story has two sides, every assumption is questionable. When we feel that 'on balance' we are probably doing the right thing, we are on fairly safe ground. When we feel that there's not a shred of doubt, we must take great care to check that we have not somehow become deluded. Be suspicious of your 'strong feelings' now. Be equally suspicious of your suspicions! In shopping centres throughout the world, moving stairways trundle up and down. None but a drunken few, late at night, attempt to descend an escalator that is rising or to ascend one that is falling. Yet everywhere else in life, this is precisely the process we all engage in every day. We battle endlessly against forces that are trying to take us further from our goal. No wonder we are so tired by bedtime. With regard to your current challenge, you really only have two choices. Run much faster still. Or just stop running. If you still don't quite see what I am trying to say, try this: A gorilla goes into a bar and orders a beer. The barman thinks; "He's only a gorilla." So he overcharges him. After a while, the barman's curiosity gets the better of him. He goes over and says "You know, we don't get many gorillas round here." The gorilla replies "If that's what a beer costs here, I'm not surprised." At the essence of this old joke is the issue of your outlook. That which is wildly extraordinary is being treated now, as if it is perfectly commonplace. A minor, almost hilariously irrelevant factor is taking precedence over something which urgently needs to be acknowledged and dealt with. Your astrological outlook implies that an insanely unacceptable scenario is being played out. Don't try to play it cool. Phone the zoo.

Uranus Conjuncts Jupiter

You will first start to notice the effects of this transit around 29th June 2021. You will continue to experience this influence until 7th March 2023 after which time it will rapidly diminish.

Here comes the upheaval you were privately praying for. Perhaps though, it is naughty of me to suggest as much. It may be that the only way you can accept this exceedingly apt and timely gift is to persuade yourself that it is something you never asked for and are not at all sure you want. Maybe, to see it as 'welcome' is to consider yourself responsible for it. Probably, you have to go through an experience of confusion or discomfort, during which you say 'I don't want this to change... or to happen'. Say it as much as you like. The truth is though, it's a really good job that things finally are working out so differently... and decisively. For a while though you can expect your life to take on all the colour and drama of a circus. One minute, it's going to be like a classic slapstick comedy, the next, a breathtaking walk on the high wire of emotion. Indeed, certain exchanges between you and a particular person will be reminiscent of nothing so much as the moment when one trapeze artist leaps into thin air. . . and the other catches them, against all apparent probability, just in the nick of time. Or then again, perhaps what will really be hurled into the air and then caught, only moments before oblivion, is your own faith in human nature. Your optimism will become a star performer; emerging miraculously unscathed despite having been fired from a canon, locked in a cage with a lion and then obliged to stand absolutely motionless whilst knife after angry knife thudded ever perilously closer to your heart. You'll become almost addicted to challenge, tension and uncertainty. You may eventually need to wean yourself off the adrenaline kick you've been getting from such a tumultuous life. . . and find comfort in a simpler, less extreme series of arrangements.

Saturn Squares Jupiter

You will first start to notice the effects of this transit around 17th January 2022. You will continue to experience this influence until 3rd February 2022 after which time it will rapidly diminish.

X is forbidden. Y is not allowed. Z is permissible - but it's so difficult that it may as well be taken off the agenda too. Or so it seems to you. That's pretty much the upshot of having Saturn form a right angle to the position held by Jupiter on the day you were born. This sharp astrological transit is causing you to feel as if you have no choice in a certain matter. You reckon you must accept what you do not like and learn to live with it - forever. There is though, one option that remains unexplored. It requires a major change of attitude on your part. Possibly too, a major change of lifestyle. But is that really so undesirable? It's easy to be the kind of person who never puts a foot wrong. All you have to do is restrict yourself. Stay within territory that you know inside out. Do only what experience has taught you to do. Go only where you recognise the lie of the land. Play it safe. Be dull. Your life will lack excitement but it will also lack the kind of intense stress that comes from venturing into the unknown. So there you go. That's your solution. Want to take it? OK then. Carry on with your adventure, accept the inevitable element of risk and remember ' patience is not always a virtue. Your current sense of exasperation is justified - and it really ought not to be repressed. You are not getting fair treatment. Either someone is acting in a heavy, high handed way - or you are being battered by a series of awkward circumstances. The sky implies the need to fight for an entitlement. On sheer point of principle, you have to do this. You can't just lie down and let yourself be walked all over. If the rules are starting to hem you in ' it is time you set about re-writing them.

Saturn Trines Mercury

You will first start to notice the effects of this transit around 16th February 2022. You will continue to experience this influence until 21st November 2022 after which time it will rapidly diminish.

You feel you need to persuade someone of something now. You have no doubt about the best way to get from here to where you want to be. This person's co-operation however, is crucial to your plan. You need them to move at the same time that you do - yet they do not seem to have any interest in doing so. The good news is, you have more respect from others than you think. It is not going to be necessary for you to coax, cajole, plead, nag, explain, argue or push a point. All you have to do is start walking in your chosen direction - and you will find, after a little initial reluctance, that your example is faithfully followed. You are going through a constructive, cathartic process which is also a creative process. Every creative process is an educational process. When you explore, you learn. When you learn, you struggle. Then, there comes a moment when your brain clicks into gear. Suddenly, you know something that you didn't previously understand. It's hard to plan for this experience. It's also hard to measure its value while it is happening. Sometimes we look back on a moment of revelation and wonder what all the fuss was about. Sometimes, as now though, a seemingly small discovery can change your life forever. Focus now on what you need to learn and what you need to communicate will communicate itself.
